

Standing in front of the Ozark Army Store in downtown Waynesville, Randy Browne greets soldiers from Fort Leonard Wood sometime in 1951 or 1952. Courtesy of Maxine Farnham.

Bridge across the Gasconade River at Ozark Springs. Recently replaced, it became known as Steckel's Bridge for the man who constructed it. Courtesy of John F. Bradbury.

Laughlin Family, 1949: (Back, left to right)--John Ichord, Sr., Orville Laughlin, Frank Ichord, Roy Laughlin, and Clyde Laughlin. (Middle, left to right)--Lola (Laughlin) Ichord, Josie (Welch) Laughlin, Vena (Laughlin) Ichord, Jeretta (Helton) Laughlin, and Alma (Ramsey) Laughlin. (Front, left to right)--Estella (Logan) Laughlin and Elsie Laughlin) Budd. Courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Laughlin.

Aerial view of Possum Lodge on the Big Piney River near Hooker. Courtesy of John F. Bradbury.

Claude Morgan (fourth from left), Tom Shockley (sixth from left), Belva Rigsby (eighth from left), Orville Laughlin (ninth from left), and Irene Mitchell Morgan (tenth from left) at the entrance of the 1903 courthouse.

Courtesy of Bob and Geneva Goodrich.

